	Statements
	All companies, whether they are registered in the UK or its Overseas Territories, should be legally required to reveal their ultimate owners	David Cameron has a moral responsibility to ensure that the UK's Overseas Territories are as transparent as possible	It is the responsibility of the individual governments of the UK's Overseas Territories - not the UK Government - to decide how much information is ...	It is damaging to the UK's international reputation to be linked to so-called 'tax havens'	Companies registered in the UK's Overseas Territories should be held to the same transparency standards regarding ownership as those registered in the UK	The UK Government should make it a legal requirement for the Overseas Territories to uphold the same transparency standards for companies registered ...	The UK's Overseas Territories should be free to set their transparency laws in the way they think will best encourage business investment and support economic growth
